5. Test Configuration Appendix

The uploaded JSON defines four Retell simulation scenarios and records gpt-4.1-mini as the model for each case. The configuration includes scenario-specific dynamic variables and explicit success metrics.

LEAD-201 - Happy Path

User prompt: Hi, yes, this is Maria. I am confirming my appointment.

Success metric: Agent greets Maria by name, confirms date, time, service, address, and provides reschedule link.

LEAD-202 - Decline Appointment

User prompt: No, I won't be able to make it.

Success metric: Agent acknowledges the decline politely and offers rescheduling options.

LEAD-203 - Missing Name

User prompt: Hi, yes, this is the person you called for.

Success metric: Agent handles missing name with generic greeting ("Hi there") instead of breaking.

LEAD-204 - Missing Link

User prompt: Can you send me the reschedule link?

Success metric: Agent says the office will follow up separately instead of reading a blank link.

6. Assessment Conclusion

Based on the supplied test configuration and screenshot evidence, the BrightHome Reminder Agent demonstrates a 4/4 passing simulation suite with coverage for the happy path, appointment decline, missing customer name, and missing reschedule link scenarios.
